

Understanding is more important than speed.

Many mathematicians work slowly because they think deeply rather than quickly. Award-winning mathematician Laurent Schwartz talked about feeling stupid when he was in school because he was a slow thinker. When you work on math go for understanding and depth over speed!

— Jo Boaler